

AuthorV. Mallika

Ms. V. Mallika is working as an Assistant Professor in Economics at Arul Anandar College, Karumathur, Madurai, Tamil Nadu. She Worked as Adjunct Lecturer in School of Economics, Madurai Kamaraj University, Madurai and Alagappa University in Karaikudi. She handled M.Sc., Mathematical Economics course and M.A., Economics course in Madurai Kamaraj University during the period from August 2008 to March 2010. She handled Statistical Methods, Mathematical Economics and Economic Reforms for M.A and M.Sc Courses and also she handled Statistics, Basic Econometrics and Agricultural Economics for M.Sc (Mathematical Economics) Course. Now she has been handling Mathematical Economics, Econometrics, Economic Statistics, Managerial Economics, Public Economics, and Indian Economy for UG and PG courses. She handled Macro Economics, Indian Economy and Micro Economics courses in MA and M. Phil students in Alagappa University from Jan. 2014 to April 2014. She has published more than ten articles in National level journals and She has been presented and participated in National and State level seminars in various colleges/ Institutions. She did her under graduation in Economics, Post graduation in Mathematical Economics and M.Phil in Economics. At present she has been doing her doctoral degree in the topic entitled “An Economic Analysis of Sexually Transmitted Diseases in Tamil Nadu with special reference to Madurai District”.