

Nomita P. Kumar

Nomita P.Kumar is a Social Scientist with Economics as subject of specialisation. Currently she is working at Giri Institute of Development Studies, Lucknow as Fellow. She has done her Ph. D. as Doctoral Fellow of Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) at Giri Institute of Development Studies, Lucknow and further as Post Doctoral Fellow with UGC Fellowship. The Author has varied interest in the field of Economics ranging from issues of women's development, regional disparity, Small Scale Industries and issues relating to employment and development of Uttar Pradesh. She has published a number of research papers in national journals of good repute and regularly writing for conferences. She has research expertise of twenty years and carrier in academics in teaching capacity both at undergraduate and postgraduate levels in Colleges & Lucknow University.